Each year Bumpers College holds its honors and awards reception where many of the college's top students were recognized. Among those are the outstanding seniors and graduate students from each department. This year the Poultry Science Department Outstanding Senior is Zach Rose and Outstanding Graduate Students are Joshua Flees, M.S. and Basanta Raj Wagle, Ph.D. Congratulations all!

Tellez receives the Dr. James H. and Shirley H. Denton Memorial Scholarship

Guillermo Tellez, right, is the first student in the Department of Poultry Science to receive the Dr. James H. and Shirley H. Denton Memorial Scholarship. He received the scholarship in a surprise presentation at the recent Poultry Science Club End-of-Year Banquet. The scholarship was established through the Poultry Science Association Foundation by Denton in memory of his wife, Shirley, who is fondly remembered by both students and faculty alike for her commitment to the activities of the poultry science students and her effort to create a family environment for the young people in the university community. The scholarship is intended to support a rising junior who has chosen poultry science as their field of study and has expressed interest in pursuing graduate education for the M.S. and Ph.D. and is renewable for the senior year. Denton, left, was in attendance to present the scholarship to Tellez.

"Mr. Tellez is currently enrolled in the Honors Program where he has an active research project," Denton said. "He exhibits outstanding potential as a future scientist."
